

Red Bluffs - Sandringham Beach / Sandringham - 5km Return - Easy

Start / End Point: Sandringham Train Station

Walk Description: For those who live in the South Eastern suburbs, this beach walk is not to be missed! With easy access from the Sandringham Station, water, toilets and beautiful trails, this beach is a treat. The marked walk on this map stays on the beach the whole way, but there is a really well formed trail that follows the beach along the cliff tops which also provides easy footing and vast views. There are ample opportunities to switch from the beach to the trail via stairs or ramps. When you come to the Red Bluffs, (Cliff section) you can easily walk around on the sand if the tide is low, otherwise it may be safer to head up onto the high trail to get past this feature. Public toilets can be found at the turn around point.

1. Looking Southwest from the station. Cross the road and follow Melrose St to the beach.

2. Cross Beach Rd to this Rotunda. From there, head down to the beach.

3. Take this trail down to the beach and travel south.

4. There are some small tracks on the low cliff to your left if you feel like a change.

5. As you pass this small passage, there is a trail that leads to the cliff top as an option.

6. Some bank protection built in—getting close to Red Bluffs in the distance.

7. If you chose not to go around the cliff on the beach, then take the nearest trail up.

8. If you feel up for the adventure, carefully step up a few rocks to see the path around.

9. Stay low on the beach and walk around these rocks. You may get wet feet!

10. Half moon bay surf life saving club at the end of this beach has public toilets if you need them.

11. You can take this track up onto the high trail if you want an easier and different view on your way back.
